Florida's Laws and Rules for Dental Laboratories: What You Need to Know!

Presented by Bennett Napier, CAE, FDLA Executive Director

Fabrication of an Overdenture Bar

Mike DiPaulo, CDT, Sponsored by Dentsply

Overdenture bars offer patients one of the best ways to stabilize a denture. However, these bars have always been a challenge for the dental laboratory. To ensure success, these overdenture bars must have a passive fit and ultimate precision, and this can be difficult using traditional laboratory procedures. This presentation will discuss the complete laboratory process, various types of bars, and how they can be accurately fabricated using new CAD/CAM technology. You will learn how this new technology takes away the guess work, and the risk of processing an overdenture bar.

Florida's Laws and Rules for Dental Laboratories: What you Need to Know!

Bennett Napier, CAE, FDLA Executive Director

Effective Jan. 1, 2009, the laws and rules governing dental laboratories doing business in Florida changed significantly. These new requirements address material disclosure, point of origin disclosure and continuing education for dental technicians. Every owner, manager and technician should be informed about how to comply with the law. This interactive workshop will provide you with a clear understanding of your responsibilities on these issues so you are ready and it will count for your "Laws and Rules" credit hour under Florida Law. This course must be taken once every two years.

Approved for 1.5 Hours of CDT/RG Regulatory Standards Credit and State of Florida Laws and Rules Credit
